VadFest 2015

VadFest 2015 is an international art and culture festival spread across the four day Republic Day weekend in India - from January 23rd to 26th. Legends from across India and around the world graced the cityscape for a fabulous celebration of art, music, dance, drama, culture, food and a special kids' theatre fest. With 50 events across 15 venues over the four day period, VadFest 2015 was one of India's biggest multi-arts, multi-venue culture festivals. And SKIDATA was part of it!

Project description

As there were many location changes during the festival, SKIDATA had to come up with a solution which could be transported by truck and could be used at a variety of locations on different days. Therefore, SKIDATA installed, for the first time, 6 turnstiles and servers in transportable containers and used these for the VadFest 2015 event.

23rd January: Day 1 (14 turnstiles)
24th January: Day 2 (24 turnstiles)
25th January: Day 3 (24 turnstiles)
26th January: Day 4 (30 turnstiles)

SKIDATA turnstiles on wheels across India

The containers with the turnstiles were moved from Mumbai to the event venue at Vadodra on the road (approx. 400 km). The container's doors were made so that they could serve as entry and exit ramps for the access of visitors at the venue.

6 SKIDATA turnstiles were fitted in the container with a pre-configured server. The container arrangement ensured the following:

- No cumbersome assembly of turnstiles required (as it was already pre-fitted in the container)
- No separate installation required at the event

Thus, it helped in reducing the preparation time and streamlining SKIDATA's efforts required to manage the event better. The innovative idea was well appreciated, both by visitors as well as by the event organizers. SKIDATA provided not only the turnstiles, but also the infrastructure including the ticketing system from Book my Show.
